NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — Four masked bandits bumped a taxicab carrying three American couples on the way home from a night at the gambling casino early Sunday, forced them at gunpoint into a deserted street and stripped them of an estimated $500,000 in jewels and cash.

One of the bandits forced the cab driver to lie flat on the floor while the other three fled the couples. They were on their way to Huntington Hartford's Paradise Island across the bay after a night at the Bahamian Club, Nassau's only casino.

Ruby To Take Stand This Week

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby, for the first time since he entered the shadow world of strip tease, waited in the wings Sunday as the star of his own show.

He is scheduled to bare his past on the witness stand at his murder trial this week, and his life may depend on his performance.

Ruby, 32, is accused of murder in the slaying Nov. 24 of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy. The maximum penalty upon conviction is death in the electric chair.

Pope Blesses Frantic Drivers

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Hundreds of the steering wheel gladiators who do daily battle with the traffic hazards of Rome assembled in front of the ancient Colosseum Sunday for the annual blessing of their cars.

Then they drove in a horn-blowing, siren-screaming procession to St. Peter's Square, where Pope Paul VI prayed to the Madonna to preserve them from the "ever more complex and hazardous" perils of the highways.

Optimism In Zone Talks

PANAMA (AP) — An optimistic feeling persisted in Panama on Sunday that the government of President Roberto Chiari is drawing close to agreement with Washington on the two-month-old dispute over the treaty under which the United States runs the Panama Canal.

Panama appears to have softened its previous policy and is said now to have agreed to restore diplomatic relations if the United States expresses willingness to "negotiate and discuss" existing differences without commitment to preconditions.

Javits: Too Late For Scranton

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania is "getting warmed up to the idea" of jumping into the GOP presidential sweepstakes, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said Sunday.

But Javits said it is "pretty late" to mount a campaign for the GOP presidential nomination although he would welcome Scranton's participation because it would help the party.

Jacits said, however, he still favors Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York for the nomination.

Freak Explosion Kills 3 Marines

TWENTYNINE PALMS, Calif. (AP) — A freak explosion of old ammunition, long buried under desert sand drifts, killed three Marines and injured two others Saturday, a Twentynine Palms Marine Base spokesman said Sunday.

Landowners Ready Guns

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — At a mass rally in a public square, President Joao Goulart is expected to sign this week a hotly contested decree expropriating thousands of acres of farmlands for peasants. Armed landowners in areas affected have vowed to fight to hold their land.

Goulart has announced he will sign the decree Friday at the height of the evening rush hour in a square near Rio de Janeiro's commuter railroad station and the War Ministry. He is known, however, for making last-minute changes in plans.

McNamara Vows Support For Khanh

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara asked a lot of questions Sunday about a South Vietnamese railroad that runs to the border of the Communist north, a U.S. official reported. This was taken by some here to mean that McNamara is studying the logistical possibilities of moving the war to Communist North Viet Nam.

The U.S. official said the possibility of such a move had not been discussed.

When McNamara reached Saigon's airport Sunday morning he delivered a brief speech, his fists frequently clenched, stating America's unequivocal support not only for Viet Nam in its war against the Communist guerrillas but for Khanh personally.

Sylvester later said: "You will note that the significant aspect of the secretary's remarks was U.S. support for Khanh."

The remark was seen as a clear pointer that America does not want to see any more coups in South Viet Nam.

On the first day of his fact-finding visit to this war-torn nation, McNamara went through seven hours of briefings. His mission includes Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; John A. McCone, director of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, and ranking State Department officials.

The report that McNamara asked about the railroad came afterword from Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense.

South Viet Nam has but one rail line. It runs from Saigon to the 17th parallel—the frontier between North and South Viet Nam.

Actually, the railroad is subject to mining, sabotage and ambush every week, and sections often are closed down for a day or two for repairs. Other means often are used to bring supplies to Vietnamese troops fighting the scattered guerrilla war, but the railroad would be important if a fighting front developed with the north.

Shooting Breaks Out On Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — British Maj. Gen. R. M. P. Carver said Sunday Greeks and Turks in the bloodied village of Kitima have agreed to a ceasefire and exchange of all hostages seized in fighting there.

Even as he made the announcement, gunfire broke out in the suburbs of this capital of embattled Cyprus. There were no immediate details on the new outbreaks.

General Carver, commander of the British truce force, flew to Kitima Sunday morning with Lt. Gen. Prem Singh Giani, the newly named commander of the projected U.N. peacekeeping force, to plead for an end to bloodshed.

There were greeted there by a near riot.

Nearly 1,000 Greek Cypriots, inflamed by fighting Saturday which left six Greeks and one Turk dead and uncounted Greek hostages in Turkish Cypriot hands, swarmed on to an athletic field where the Indian general's helicopter landed.

"Hostages, hostages, we want our brothers returned," they chanted.

One youth climbed atop a police car in which Giani was riding and the general rapped him with a baton to force him off.

Greeks cheered Greek Cypriot Interior minister Polycarpos Georgiadis, who accompanied Giani from Nicosia, and jeered the British with shouts of "English go home."

Giani met with the British commanders here, with leaders of the Greek and Turkish communities and inspected from a distance the fortified positions of the two sides. After he returned to Nicosia, Kitima's Turkish Cypriot police chief and Georgiadis gave assurances to the crowds that all the hostages would be released.

Rocky Pitching, Barry Confident

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller warned Republicans Sunday against political "extremes that are outside the mainstream of American thought."

Sen. Barry Goldwater rested his campaign case with the "conscience and . . . common sense" of New Hampshire voters.

And both Republican presidential contenders kept an eye on the write-in campaign for Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

There was a question mark on the Democratic side, too: how many New Hampshire voters will write in the name of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy as their choice for a vice presidential candidate?

Democratic Gov. John W. King said he will—after listing President Johnson as his choice for top spot on the ticket. Some New Hampshire Democrats fear a heavy Kennedy write-in without a balancing vote for Johnson would embarrass the President.

Rockefeller's view on the Democratic maneuvering: "I personally believe that a president should select his running mate."

Goldwater said Saturday a mandate for Kennedy could saddle Johnson with a running mate who would "make the South see red"—and make the Republicans take easier next November.

Two Days Away
With New Hampshire's presidential primary two days away, Rockefeller stuck to the campaign trail in Manchester.

"I'm going to stay right here until the final hour," he said. Goldwater flew back to Washington Saturday night. The Arizona senator told reporters at the airport he saw no need for any more campaigning because "I have it made."

Rockefeller chided the senator for that remark: "I think it's a little presumptuous to assume you've got it made."

Lodge Enthusiasm
In Concord, the chairman of the Draft Lodge Committee said he sees "tremendous enthusiasm building" for the party's vice presidential nominee, who is U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam.

J. Richard Jackman said the Lodge organization is shooting for 20,000 to 25,000 votes in Tuesday's presidential preference poll, and hopes to capture at least four of the 14 GOP convention delegates at stake.

Former Gov. Wesley Powell heads a write-in campaign for former vice president Richard M. Nixon. His only forecast: A "credible" showing Tuesday by the 1960 Republican nominee.

In a windup statement from Washington, Goldwater said his case is in the hands of the voters now.

"I am confident that their sense will guide them to the right decision as they always have in the past," he said.

Heavy Ballot
The voters' task Tuesday will be an awesome one. There are three other declared candidates: Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen and political unknown Norman Lepage of Nashua.

There's even a candidate for the vice presidential nomination—Wayne Green of Peterborough, who publishes a magazine for amateur radio operators.

In addition, 101 candidates for delegate or alternate delegate to the convention are listed on the Republican ballot, which is almost as big as a newspaper page.

There are 50 convention candidates on the Democratic side. Voters can choose 17 delegates and alternates.

Between 90,000 and 100,000 Republicans are expected to turn out, along with 30,000 to 40,000 Democrats.

Nixon Predicts Huge Write-in KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former vice president Richard M. Nixon predicted Sunday night that in Tuesday's New Hampshire primary, "the total write-in vote will be unprecedented both for Republicans and Democrats."

He declined to forecast the result in either party, or to predict how many write-in votes he will receive himself.

Rights Foes United For Senate Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The long-brewing Senate battle over the House-passed civil rights bill opens Monday. The measure's backers are somewhat divided but its Southern foes are united and ready for a long, wearying struggle.

The measure is the most comprehensive legislative effort to improve the Negro's lot that has moved this far in Congress in nearly 100 years.

Southerners have vowed to do all they can to kill it or change it to a pattern more to their liking.

The Democratic leadership, backed by President Johnson, has pledged every effort to pass it intact.

Both sides disclaim all thoughts of compromise.

Miss Blatt Gets More Backing

HARRISBURG (UPI)—Charging Democratic leaders with a lack of contact with the "grass roots rank and file," former House Speaker Hiram G. Andrews has announced support for Genevieve Blatt for the U.S. Senate.

In a sharply worded weekend statement, the 87-year-old Johnstown resident said Miss Blatt "speaks for a movement designed to end the era of smoke-filled room control of the Democratic party."

Miss Blatt, state internal affairs secretary, is backing the Democratic organization, which has tapped state Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno for the Senate nomination in the April 28 primary.

The spokesman said two other patients whose kidney transplants were announced by Hahnemann Jan. 30 remain in satisfactory condition.

Abandoning Boat Cost 2 Lives

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Two teen-agers jumped from a boat and disappeared Saturday in the Allegheny River in suburban Penn Hills. A third boy reached shore safely.

Police said Anthony Kasing, 14, Frank Wedelesky, 17, both of Penn Hills, jumped from the boat because they thought it was going to capsize. It was believed neither could swim.

David Richards, 16, also of Penn Hills, grabbed one of the boys but was unable to hold him, police said. He was treated at a hospital for exposure and released.

They said dragging operations to recover the bodies probably wouldn't begin until Monday because of the swift current and debris floating in the river.

Philly Cops Get Course On Tickets

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia and state officials worked out a program last week which they hope will end erroneous issuing of city traffic summonses to professed innocent motorists throughout Pennsylvania.

Police Commissioner Howard R. Leary will start an educational program for police in the writing of traffic tickets. State Atty. Gen. Walter E. Alessandro reported.

Officers' handwriting will be checked for accuracy and they will be instructed to use block lettering, the conference was told. Tickets will be revised to provide larger spaces for police to write in.

The city has received numerous complaints that mistakes in the recording of registration letters and figures on its tickets have resulted in the issuance of unjustified summonses.

Alessandro said the state will issue new license plates next year and there will be no duplication of numbers as there now is, particularly on official state cars.

An effort will be made to eliminate letters that cause errors, he added. He mentioned that S looks like 5, Z like 2, Y like 4, U like V and G like 6, particularly from a distance.

Many current license plates are more than five years old, he said, and the letters and numbers barely distinguishable, he noted.

Alessandro reported everyone at the conference, including representatives of motor clubs, was pleased with the progress resulting. He stated there was nothing to indicate a racket in the issuance of erroneous tickets.

Would Have Buried Wall

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, former chief of naval operations, said if he had been in command in West Berlin when the Communists built the wall, he would have plowed through it with bulldozers.

Burke, speaking in Philadelphia Saturday, said he is convinced the Russians would not have retaliated.

While New York City firemen are making headlines for their entertainment of call girls in a Harlem station house - Italian firemen popped into the spotlight too last week.

Firemen in Rome went out on strike because they feel they are overworked.

Actually, Rome's old buildings are stone and fire alarms are rare. But firemen are constantly being called to aid drowning victims, retrieve pet animals etc. - thus the charge of overworking.

Firemen in Baltimore responded to a false alarm. And when they got at the scene of the alarm they weren't too angry.

How could they be?

They found a 65-year-old man, Sam Walker, punching the alarm button. But the elderly gentlemen told them he thought he was pressing a button that would light up the walk signal on the traffic lights at the intersection.

He did cross easily after firemen arrived.

Herman Wilson found some fossilized eggs near his home in Rifle, Colorado. Naturally, he was curious about the eggs - but not so curious that he wanted the potato-shaped stone eggs to leave his possession.

But after three years, curiosity won out and he shipped his cherished treasure to the Chicago Museum of Natural History.

And now his treasure is more cherished.

Scientists say the eggs are 50 million years old - bird of crocodile eggs.

Prior to Herman's discovery, paleontologists in Western Colorado say the oldest eggs found on the North American continent were only 30 million years ago.

Medicare Bill Expected Back In 1964 Spotlight

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — A scaled-down version of the Administration's medical care-for-the-aged bill will probably win House Ways and Means Committee approval within the next few months. This would send the bill to the House floor for passage in 1964, giving President Johnson's election campaign an important boost.

The Ways and Means Committee is expected to take up the bill in executive session in mid-March. The Administration proposal calls for an increase in the Social Security payroll tax and use of the new revenues to finance hospital care benefits for the nation's elderly population.

In the past, medical care bills have been firmly locked in the Ways and Means Committee. A majority of the Committee, including Chairman Wilbur D. Mills (D Ark.), has opposed medical care bills tied to the Social Security payroll tax system.

But reports now indicate that a majority has developed on the Committee in favor of a compromise measure.

Three former medical care opponents — Mills, himself, and Reps. John C. Watts (D Ky.) and Clark W. Thompson (D Texas) — are now said to be willing to send the bill to the House floor.

If so, the bill that emerges may well be sponsored by Mills as Committee chairman and be part of a package of improved Social Security old-age benefits.

The bill expected to clear the Ways and Means Committee this year is a revised and sharply cut-down version of the original Administration bill, but it preserves the essential features of Social Security financing and federal administration.

Committee members are said to favor a modest beginning for the program. Although final details have not yet been worked out, following were the expected key features:

1. Hospital benefits will be limited to 50 days a year, with no alternatives or options. (Under the original Administration bill, hospital benefits could be as much as 180 days.) No final decision has been made on whether the bill also will carry nursing home benefits and will provide for elderly persons who are not eligible for regular Social Security old-age payments. But there is a chance that the answer to both these questions will be "no."

2. The program would not include any of the proposals to let beneficiaries buy private insurance or have Blue Cross administer the benefits. Administration would be handled by a special staff in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which already administers the existing Social Security program.

3. Benefits would be financed by a Social Security payroll tax increase of at least one-quarter of 1 percent, and probably more. The proceeds would be put into a separate Social Security account or trust fund reserved for payment of the hospital benefits. Creation of the separate fund would safeguard the existing Social Security old-age and disability trust funds from being drained off in the event the new hospital benefit program should cost more than anticipated.

Discussion of the probable shift of sentiment on the Ways and Means Committee in favor of the bill centered on the position of the three members, Mills, Watts and Thompson. None of the three has backed the medical care bill in the past. Shifts by any two of the three would give the bill a majority of at least 13 or 14 votes (consisting entirely of Democrats).

Welfare Unit Aims At Reducing Appeals

The State Public Welfare Department has established an administrative procedure which may change the pattern of Departmental hearings in the future and reduce the number of court appeals from State administrative decisions.

Public Welfare Secretary Arlin M. Adams said today.

The innovation, hailed by experts in the field of jurisprudence as a major improvement in administrative procedures, is the use of outside hearing examiners to conduct departmental hearings.

In the past, State agencies used their own examiners for such hearings.

"The use of examiners from outside the Department is a completely fair and impartial procedure, and should give less cause for charges of partiality and for appeal and long legal delays in settling disputed issues," Secretary Adams said.

The innovation is currently being used in Public Welfare Department hearings involving the Bureau For Child Care, a private child welfare agency in Philadelphia. In this case it is contended by the Commonwealth that the Bureau For Child Care does not meet the operating standards established for agencies of this type.

A trio of outside examiners has been named by Secretary Adams to hear the case. Members of the special panel are Bruce E. Cooper, Harrisburg attorney; Wendell G. Freeland, Pittsburgh attorney; and Dr. Mary Ella Robertson, assistant dean of the Graduate School of Social Work at the University of Pittsburgh.

Deadline Near For Registration

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Revenue Department said last week some 200,000 motorists will fail to get their car registrations in time to be able to drive after April 1 deadline for renewals.

L. T. Bernard, director of the Motor Vehicles Bureau, said his prediction was based on the current rate of return of renewal applications.

"If we receive between 1.5 million and 2 million renewals after March 16, we cannot process them by the 31st," said Bernard.

The bureau can process only about 100,000 applications a day. He said the bureau has received only 54 per cent returns on the total applications mailed out in January. The bureau currently is working at only about half capacity because of the slowness of returns.

State Eases Boat Rules

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Forests and Waters Department reported last week it no longer will require motorboat owners to secure launching permits to use their craft on state park waters where motorboats are allowed.

However, owners of other types of craft — canoes, sailboats, row boats — must still obtain launching permits at parks.

The department said the motorboat ruling was designed to eliminate overlapping of regulations of the Forests and Waters Department with the new state boating board.

UC Bill May Go To Bat Tuesday

HARRISBURG (UPI)—The Senate Labor and Industry Committee was to meet behind closed doors Monday to consider a series of proposed amendments for Gov. William W. Scranton's unemployment compensation revisions.

It was hoped the legislation would be released for floor action Tuesday, exactly four weeks after its introduction.

Tentative plans are to move the UC bill into position for a final vote by Friday, but majority floor leader Sen. James S. Berger, R-Potter, pointed out in a weekend statement that "it all depends on the action of the committee."

"We expected to get it out and want to move it promptly for action this week," he said.

"There are no plans for scheduling the sessions as yet, but we will act as fast as we can, giving the subject matter full consideration."

Study Amendments

Of the 12 or more proposed amendments to be studied by the committee, four are said to be of major importance and probably will be inserted into the UC bill. Neither Berger or committee Chairman Sen. D. Elmer Hawbaker, R-Franklin, would reveal the contents of the major suggested changes, but it was believed they would be aimed at:

—Eliminating the proposal to restrict seasonally employed agricultural and resort workers to benefits only during their normal periods of work.

—Removing, or at least softening, a proposal requiring jobless claimants to prove availability for work.

—Modifying the proposed reduction of minimum tax rate on employers from 2 to 1 per cent so the cutback would come about in two or three years instead of immediately.

—Removing the proposed elimination of weekly benefits below $15.

Minor Changes

Berger and Hawbaker also indicated there would be several minor changes in the UC legislation, with these expected to hit the sections pertaining to pregnant women, the so-called "double dip," and the step-down.

Both the House and Senate will reconvene their regular sessions Monday afternoon to resume action on a series of appropriations bills which are part of Scranton's proposed $1.168 billion budget for fiscal 1964-65.

The two chambers will resume their special sessions Tuesday morning.

Also, representatives of all affiliated bodies of the Pennsylvania AFL-CIO have been invited to attend a meeting here Monday to map plans for a step up in opposition to Scranton's UC legislation. State President Harry Boyer, and Michael Johnson, executive vice president, will address the session, after which the union representatives will gather on the steps of the capitol.

Clark Calls Filibuster Silly

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., who has sought a change in Senate rules for many years, has called a filibuster one of the "silliest enterprises that 100 mature men have ever permitted themselves to engage in."

He said the filibuster—one is expected to begin next week during Senate consideration on civil rights legislation—is an exercise in defiance of democracy, majority rule and the views of the nation's founding fathers.

The Lenten Story

ART THOU THE CHRIST?

Shortly before daybreak, Jesus was led into the Sanhedrin to be questioned by the chief priests and elders of the people.

"Art Thou the Christ? Tell us," they asked Him.

And He said to them, "If I tell you, ye will not believe; and if I question you, you will not answer Me or let Me go. But henceforth, the Son of Man will be seated at the right hand of the power of God."

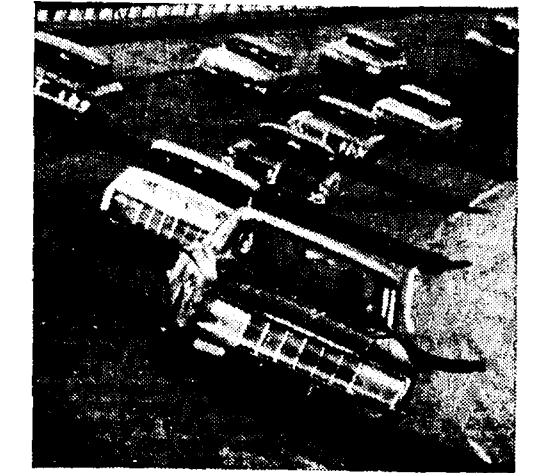

And they all said, "Art Thou, then, the Son of God?"

He answered, "Ye say that I am." (Luke XXII:69-70)

"What further need have we of witnesses?" asked the high priest. "Ye have heard the blasphemy: what think ye? And they all condemned Him to be guilty of death." (Mark XIV:64)

HIGH SPEED

Plymouth rocks racing world with sweep in Daytona "500"

According to the record book for stock cars in competition, there is no higher average speed for 500 miles than the 154.334 m.p.h. set by a competition-equipped 1964 Plymouth in winning last month's Daytona "500."

Adding to that glory is the fact that two more 1964 Plymouths finished 2nd and 3rd for a decisive Plymouth sweep. That suggests that Plymouths were not only the swiftest cars in the competition, but that they're built to stay in there all the way.

For the millions of racing fans and high-performance enthusiasts across the country, Plymouth is proud of its "high speed" victory at Daytona.

YOUR SPEED

Plymouth beats Ford & Chevrolet in tests of showroom V-8s

This competition was more "your speed."

At Plymouth's request, an independent testing company bought and compared showroom models of Plymouth, Ford and Chevrolet.

The cars were comparably equipped standard V-8s — cars people buy. And the tests were of "things people buy a car for" — acceleration, handling, braking, and gas economy.

In test after test, Plymouth accelerated best, handled best, braked best, and got the best gas mileage. This is the kind of competition Plymouth most likes to win. "High speed" or "your speed," these 1964 Plymouths are tough to beat!

Signs On Rt. 80

Citizens and sign-owners should encourage and cooperate with the Pennsylvania Department of Highways in its efforts to enforce a three-year-old state law against signs within 660 feet of the right of way of interstate highways which are visible to motorists on such highways.

The highway department has filed condemnation maps citing 72 signs from the Stroudsburg borough limits to Scot-run which stand within 660 feet of the Interstate Rt. 80 right of way. However, many of them are not visible from the highway or are legally erected on the property of the business advertised and probably will not be affected.

But there are some signs still standing along the beautiful new Keystone Shortway in Monroe County which will have to come down.

Other signs within the boroughs of Stroudsburg and Water Gap are apparently safe from action either by the State Highway Department or the boroughs themselves.

The state law of April, 1961, which enables the state to collect one half of one per cent of federal interstate highway construction costs if illegal billboards are removed has been interpreted to exempt signs within the boundaries of incorporated municipalities—boroughs in Monroe County.

However, boroughs with zoning ordinances like that in East Stroudsburg are free to regulate or ban such signs. But Stroudsburg and Delaware Water Gap do not have zoning ordinances and even if they do adopt them, they will only be able to prevent future signs from going up. A zoning ordinance cannot force down an existing sign.

The purpose of the federal-state program to keep the four-lane interstate highways clean of billboards is particularly important to the Pocono Mountain vacationland.

The Pennsylvania law is supposed "to promote the safety, convenience and enjoyment of public travel, to preserve the scenic beauty of lands bordering on such highways, and to protect the public investment in such highways."

But there is also a particular need in the Pocono Mountains vacationland for more complete highway and road information than can be given in a single interchange exit sign. There are about 500 resort motels, hotels, restaurants, lodges and other attractions in the Monroe-Pike County area.

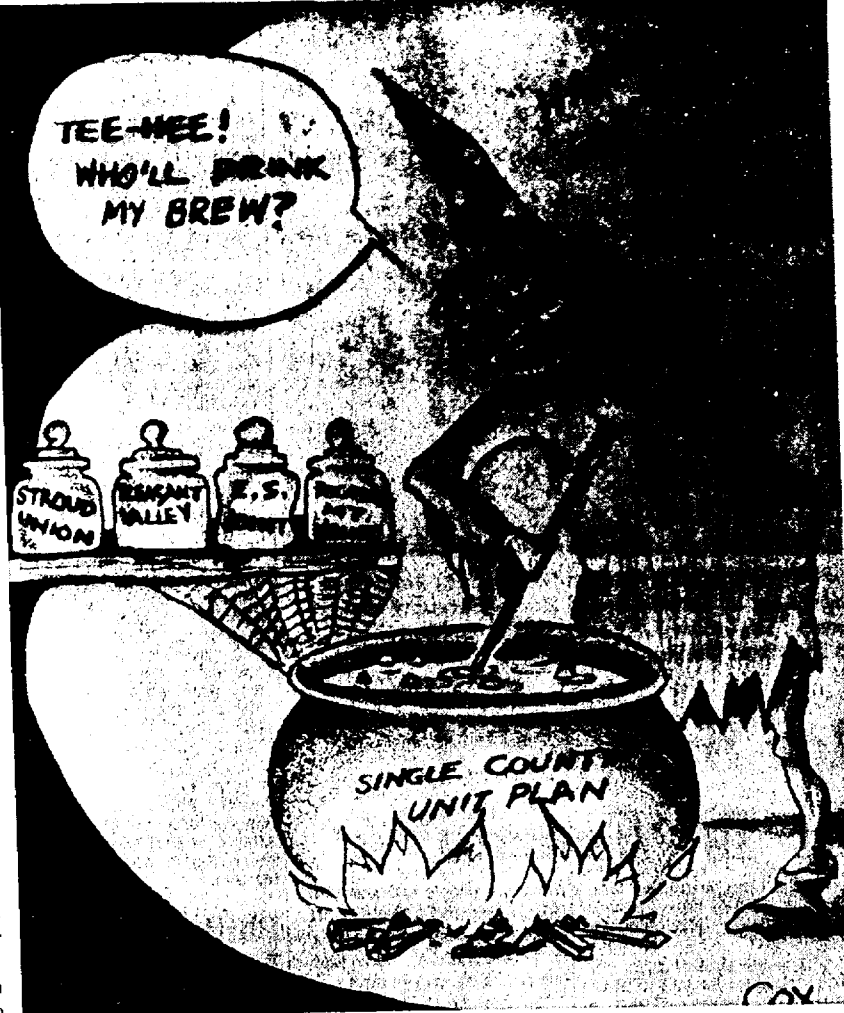

Obviously there cannot be a sign for each one of them on the Interstate highway.

But there is special provision in the Pennsylvania law for "informational site signs." Panels no more than 13 feet high nor 25 feet wide may be erected at information sites off the main highway and not legible from the highway.

Tourists could stop and park, get information and then return to the highway or continue on an interchange exit with some assurance of reaching their destination.

A more elaborate tourist information plaza at the Delaware Water Gap bridge on Interstate Rt. 80 has been designed and is sitting in a State Highway Department office.

If the highway department is going to enforce the interstate highway billboard law, then we think it is time for the highway department to approve and build the Delaware Water Gap information site and consider other more modest sites along the highway in the Pocono Mountains resort area.

The Pennsylvania Story

Boyer Blasts U.C. Bill

(Ed. Note: Two weeks ago Governor Scranton as "Pennsylvania Story" guest columnist expressed his feelings on the controversial unemployment compensation revision program advanced by his administration. In this two-part series, how Pennsylvania labor feels is expressed by Pennsylvania AFL-CIO President Harry Boyer, (MD).

HARRISBURG—The basic reasons why the Pennsylvania labor movement is solidly opposed to Governor Scranton's attempt to scuttle the present UC Law and why the Manufacturers' Association, Chambers of Commerce, utilities and others are supporting it, are as opposite as the poles.

The Pennsylvania AFL-CIO and all branches of the labor movement feel deeply that the bill violates moral principles to a shocking degree. The average citizen will see this once he escapes from the fog of Madison Avenue propaganda being beamed at him in every newspaper and on every TV and radio station in the state.

Victims of this proposed legislation number as many as 260,000 people who are jobless, many of them destitute and some of them without hope. They live in fear of struggling to exist on reduced UC benefits or losing them entirely. These people have no lobbyists in the State Capitol and no spokesmen of their own.

The AFL-CIO and other unions will not collect one dollar in dues from the victims of this proposed law. To organized employers, however, support for the Scranton proposals is a cold-blooded, dollar-and-cents proposition. The chairman of their phantom "Jobs for Pennsylvanians" Committee admitted they had spent $175,000 THE FIRST WEEK of this campaign for press and air-wave advertising and that they are prepared to equal that amount each week. An estimated half-million dollars have already been spent.

To organized employers, this is a down payment on an investment for which they expect a return within a few years, if not earlier.

Why? Because it all happened before!

The sad lessons of the "Great UC Tax Give-Away Program" under Governors Duff and Pine in 1949 and 1951 have been forgotten. The fund balance was $635 million, considered too large. Employers' tax rates were reduced and made retroactive, amounting to $80 million divided among an employer-population of 185,000.

Actually, fourteen of them were corporations which benefited from "overpayment of credits" to the total of $18,729,301.63. This was eight one-hundredth - thousandths-of-one-per-cent of the total number of employers and their share of the pot was about 24 per cent of the $80 million. An estimated two-thirds of the other employers got nothing. Some of the larger beneficiaries did not have to resume UC tax payments for periods up to 12 quarters, or three years.

Similarly, tax reductions proposed today under the Scranton proposal are to be enjoyed, in the main, by only a handful of favored industries.

The same forces, using similar techniques as 15 years ago, with the fund balance "too low," now seek to confuse the public and obscure their motives.

Particularly, they want the public to believe:

1. "Chief fault lies with the idle workers who are being treated too generously."

2. "Majority of applicants are lazy men and women who do not want to find jobs, being satisfied to live on UC benefits."

No wonder President George Meany and the AFL-CIO Council in Florida last week said: "Governor Scranton is fighting the unemployed; not unemployment."

The Allen-Scott Report

Cloture Battle

WASHINGTON—Senate opponents of President Johnson's civil rights program are within three votes of being able to defeat any administration move to limit debate in the Senate on this controversial measure.

Their confidential poll, taken on the eve of the crucial debate, shows that a coalition of 31 Southern Democrats and Republican senators is ready to block all attempts by the Senate leaders to bring the legislation to a vote by imposing cloture.

Under Senate rules 67 members or two-thirds of those present and voting must approve cloture in order to cut off debate or end a filibuster. The poll lists 54 Democratic and Republican senators as prepared to limit the civil rights debate by voting cloture. Fifteen senators are still undecided on how they will cast their vote if and when the showdown comes.

Of these "swing" senators, eight are reported "leaning" toward cloture while seven are "inclined" against approving any cut-off of debate on civil rights.

According to these Senate opponents, the unpublished poll gives Senator Richard Russell D-Ga., their titular leader, a strong bargaining weapon to induce President Johnson, his close friend, to "water down" the House-passed civil rights bill.

To win over the "clinging" three votes needed to block a debate limitation, the Southern Democratic-Republican coalition is working closely with a newly-formed organization known as "Fundamental American Freedoms, Inc.," which is launching a nationwide campaign to early opposition to the Johnson program.

The "Ad" Campaign—This organization, with national headquarters in Washington, hopes to stir up strong grassroots opposition to the legislation in Northern as well as Southern states by placing large advertisements in approximately 200 newspapers.

The ads will charge that the civil rights bill now before the Senate is "not a moderate bill," warning that, "it constitutes the greatest grab for executive power conceived in the 20th century."

The Southern senators hope to attract additional support among conservative Republicans by tossing an explosive new element into the coming civil rights debate.

In a series of speeches on the Senate floor, they will charge that the same administration attorneys who drafted the civil rights program are engineering White House backing for an international court to enforce "civil rights" as stipulated under a treaty being prepared at the United Nations.

A draft of this treaty to ban all forms of racial bias was presented to the UN by Morris B. Abram, former general counsel for the Peace Corps and now the U.S. member on a UN Subcommittee on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities.

A key provision of the Abram proposal would bar countries ratifying the treaty from encouraging, advocating or lending support "through police action or otherwise" to racial discrimination by any group, individual or institution.

The Southern senators will stress that the treaty and the international civil rights court are part of a backstage State Department plan to link the racial problem in the U.S. with that in Africa, and then put final jurisdiction under the UN.

Senate Democratic leaders, led by Senator Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., majority whip plan to counter this strategy by forcing the Senate to stay in session 12 hours or longer each day.

Backstage Bombshell—

Senator Wayne Morse has bluntly told the Johnson administration "to get out of South Vietnam"—or face the dire likelihood of nuclear war there and crushing political defeat at home.

The militant Oregonian hurled this bombshell at a private conference between Secretary Dean Rusk and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, of which Morse is a ranking member.

The State Department head talked lengthily, but gave no hint of administration plans and policies regarding South Vietnam.

Rusk particularly dodged questions on what, if anything, is contemplated about the protracted and faltering conflict to North Vietnam. He was similarly uncommunicative concerning the aim of the large mission, headed by Defense Secretary McNamara. Rusk asserted it was sent there for a "first-hand review" of the situation.

GOSSIP TOWN, USA
DEAR GOSSIP TOWN: I'd send her a "get well" card!

DEAR ABBY: I can't expect you to solve my problem, but I am interested in your opinion. Our school has just installed a swimming pool, and the boys have been informed that they must swim nude. Some of the boys did not approve of this, but they didn't object because they were afraid of the coach. (My son was one of those who I know.) I think this should have been decided by the parents as it is a public, coeducational school built with taxpayers' money. What do you think?

TAXPAYER
DEAR TAXPAYER: I agree that this decision should have been left to each parent. But your boy had better overcome his shyness about nudity in the presence of other boys or he is likely to be miserable much of his life.

DEAR ABBY: My husband says I am unreasonable because I do not approve of his having one night a week "out with the boys." Before you tell me off I want to explain what his "night out with the boys" entails. First of all, these "boys" have no names or addresses. They just "bum around." I wouldn't object if he went bowling with the boys, went to a movie or had dinner with the "boys," or even if he played cards — if I knew the "boys" and where they went. I think you are beginning to get the picture. How do I handle this? I hate to call it quits and throw him out because we have a family.

FED UP

Speaking Of Your Health:

Let's Have Healthy Highways

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.
The automobile is too often a lethal weapon, responsible for 40,000 deaths and 1,500,000 injuries yearly in the U. S. Such appalling statistics portray a health problem of gigantic magnitude and national concern.

There are many factors that share responsibility for this blight on the safety of a nation.

Federal and state agencies work ceaselessly to remove the more obvious construction hazards of driving. Roads and highways are constantly being modernized and improved for the maximum safety of passengers and pedestrians.

Safety Features

Automobile manufacturers offer in today's cars many safety features devised by engineering research. Seat belts, padded interiors and secure door catches contribute to the maximum protection of the occupants.

Comprehensive driver education programs, for beginner and experienced alike, are designed to perfect driving techniques and to teach the rules of the road. More rigid physical and mental tests are being employed to weed out incompetent and unreliable drivers.

When a high-speed car is driven by one suffering from faulty vision, impaired hearing, emotional instability or any physical limitation that might diminish the motorist's speed of response, the automobile becomes a potential instrument of destruction. Rapid reflexes require a healthy body and an alert mind.

Vital Role

The physician plays a vital role in preserving the safety of the community by recognizing the illnesses or handicaps of his patients which could impair driving efficiency.

Dr. L. G. Norman, London, England, and Dr. Harold Brandalone, New York City, have cited a number of medical conditions which can cause death and destruction on the highways:

A tendency to faint or fall asleep.

Epilepsy.

Heart Disease.

Diabetes with insulin treatment.

Convulsions.

Incomplete recovery from strokes.

Known neurological disease.

Sudden attacks of dizziness (vertigo).

Impaired vision.

Deficient hearing.

Artificial incapacitation of the arms or legs.

These are some of the physical conditions which are most likely to interfere with the split-second timing that often spells the difference between safety and disaster.

Effects Of Drugs—

Anyone taking antihistamine pills should be warned that he may experience unusual drowsiness and fatigue. Many other drugs containing sedatives and tranquilizers can also reduce the speed of reflexes.

Alcohol with gasoline is, of course, a deadly mixture. The psychological structure of the driver should be evaluated, too, before an individual is permitted the luxury of freedom of the highway.

Comment Of The Day

"Kurt Wimer of East Stroudsburg State College has shown in a series of articles that Wilson, after his stroke, followed a consistent and well thought out policy aimed at forcing the Senate to approve the Versailles treaty."

"That policy failed to be sure, but it was ingenious, elaborate and by no means irrational. Mr. Smith missed most of this. He missed other evidence..."

Walter Lippmann

Viet Nam Dilemma

By Walter Lippmann

The Vietnamese war poses the difficult question of whether it can be discussed responsibly in public. For any discussion of the problem of the war is an admission that there is a problem, and this carries with it some doubt about the success of a military solution by the methods we are now employing.

To admit that there is any doubt at all might, there is reason to fear, trigger the collapse of the very fragile fighting morale of the South Vietnamese government and people. I think this may well be true and that the officials who keep wishing that Senator Mansfield would be silent and that the press would not talk about the matter are not beset by imaginary fears.

Yet this poses a grave question for public men and for the responsible press. Should they hide from our people the undeclared question which has been waged surreptitiously and can lead either to a defeat or to a full-scale war of incalculable consequences?

25 Year War?

It would not be necessary to discuss the Vietnamese war seriously if the choice before us were, on the one hand, to keep on doing what we are doing in South Vietnam — if necessary for 25 years — or, on the other hand, to win the war in South Vietnam by attacking North Vietnam.

For myself, I do not believe that this is the real choice which confronts us.

It is, I believe, supremely improbable that Americans will be able to fight a 25-year war on the mainland of Asia; it is, I am convinced by the specialists, I have talked to, most improbable that what is essentially a civil war in the south can be stopped by bombing cities in the north.

The nearer and the actual danger is that the government in Saigon will be overturned, as it has been twice in the past few months.

It might be overturned by a junta which will call for the end of the war, the neutralization of South Vietnam and the departure of the Americans.

Something very like this has already happened on a small scale in Cambodia, an adjoining part of what used to be Indo-China.

Such a neutralization of South Vietnam would indeed be a defeat for the United States, and it is in order to prevent such a defeat that General De Gaulle's intervention in Southeast Asia is relevant.

Neutralization—General De Gaulle is not proposing the neutralization of South Vietnam. He is proposing the neutralization of what used to be French Indo-China and, if possible, the whole of Southeast Asia — of North and South Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia and perhaps Thailand and Burma as well.

This general neutralization would be under international guarantees given by Red China, the Soviet Union, France, Great Britain, India and the United States.

Quite obviously, such a political solution would be very difficult to work out, and it may well be that it is now too late to attempt it, because the situation in the south has been deteriorating so rapidly.

I am, nevertheless, in favor of trying for it or, more exactly, of letting General De Gaulle try for it.

For unless Secretary McNamara comes back from South Vietnam persuaded that a military solution is possible, the alternative to trying for the general neutralization of the whole region may be collapse and defeat in Saigon.

At present our position in Vietnam is like that of a man on a bicycle who must keep going in order not to fall down.

I think we must and should keep going. We must not and we cannot withdraw. We must try to avoid the defeat which the neutralization of South Vietnam alone would mean.

Bargaining Power—What we should do, I believe, is to make plans and dispositions for the continuing presence of American power in this area in order that, if and when general neutralization is proposed, we shall have significant bargaining power.

Though a general neutralization of the area would certainly be difficult to bring about, it is not inconceivable and it is not altogether impossible.

Ho Chi Minh in North Vietnam has no desire to be ruled by the Chinese. Access to the food grown in the south would be tempting to him. The reduction of the risk and threat of a great war between China and the United States would be a benefit to him.

As for Red China itself, there is always the problem of the long, disputed and dangerous frontier with the Soviet Union in the north, and a bargain which tranquilized the borderlands on the south might therefore be attractive.

I am not forgetting that it is easier to fall than to succeed. But the future would be brighter if some kind of political solution could be brought about.

Off The Record:

Juvenile Shoplifting

Jack Kerlin penned a short note to this corner the other day. Emphatically he wrote, "Shoplifting by juveniles is serious in Stroudsburg."

Kerlin, the Dapper Dan of Wyckoff's Department Store, Main St., Stroudsburg, knows well what he talks about.

We remember a while back when the merchandising executive pin-pointed several cases involving both juveniles and grown-ups. "You'd be surprised at the amount that is stolen from local store counters each year," he related.

Then Kerlin got busy and the story was never finished. A recent editorial in the Lancaster New Era newspaper focused new attention on what Jack said in a few words.

Contacts

They're telling the story of the trooper who stopped a woman going through a red light. He asked to see her driver's license. When she produced it, he noticed it required that she wear glasses.

"No wonder you went through the red light," he said, "You're supposed to wear glasses and you aren't. I've got to give you a ticket."

"But," the lady protested, "I've got contacts."

About Town

They're telling the story of the trooper who stopped a woman going through a red light. He asked to see her driver's license. When she produced it, he noticed it required that she wear glasses.

"No wonder you went through the red light," he said, "You're supposed to wear glasses and you aren't. I've got to give you a ticket."

"But," the lady protested, "I've got contacts."

"I don't give a darn whom you know," the trooper replied. "You went through that light, and you're going to get a ticket."

Hill Meadow Building $50,000 Horse Arena

STROUDSBURG -- Ground was broken Saturday at Hill Meadow Stables, one mile west of Stroudsburg on old Rt. 209, on a $50,000 building that will house the newest and largest indoor horse arena in Eastern Pennsylvania.

Howard Lininger, Hill Meadow owner, said the new arena will permit horse fanciers to ride and practice throughout the year.

Indoor Shows
The new building will be a steel supported wooden structure with overall dimensions of 270 by 90 feet. The arena area will be 210 by 80 feet, which will be large enough to hold indoor horse shows, jumping events and can even accommodate indoor polo, according to Lininger.

Included in the building will be space for 24 new permanent horse stalls as well as covered bleacher facilities for more than 300 spectators and a clubhouse.

Lininger, who with his wife Flo, boards and trains horses in addition to operating a riding school at Hill Meadow said: "Our new indoor arena will permit all the area's horsemen to enjoy riding every day of the year. In the past we had to stop our activities when the snow fell."

Pocono Saddle Club
He said the first big show is scheduled July 19 in the arena and will be sponsored by the Pocono Saddle Club. "This show is sanctioned by the American Show Horse Assn., American Quarter Horse Assn., National Cutting Horse Assn. and the East Coast Cutting Horse Assn.," said Lininger.

Albert E. Smith of Greentown, who designed the building, said, "The arena will be built of homoseite wood to reduce the echo created by galloping horses. The building will also contain forced ventilation for the convenience of spectators."

Outdoor Arena
Lininger said the arena is being built on the site of his present outdoor arena which will be moved 200 feet to the east. "This will give us the indoor arena, two outdoor arenas and the jumping course," he said. He said during the summer he has 11 people working at the stables to help out with riding instruction and tending the 62 horses quartered at Hill Meadow.

The 24 new stalls will give Lininger a stable capacity of 71 stalls.

300 Ribbons
Lininger is an enthusiastic horseman who has won more than 300 ribbons and trophies for his riding ability. "We can teach the average person to ride a horse. We never had a student, who after learning to ride, say they didn't like horseback riding."

"Riding is the healthiest sport you can take part in. It is more fun than any other sport because you have the companionship of your horse and the advantage of being outdoors." He said the new facilities will enable him to conduct riding classes for East Stroudsburg State College students "right through the winter."

Riding Course
"There is a possibility that a course in horsemanship will be accredited by the college," he said.

Lininger said there are more than 1,000 riding horses in a 20-mile radius of Stroudsburg. "The sport of riding horses is becoming one of the most popular pastimes in the country," he said.

State Park Ruling On Motorboats

HARRISBURG -- Secretary of Forests and Waters Maurice K. Goddard yesterday issued a directive stating the department will no longer require motorboat owners to secure launching permits to use their craft on state park waters where such boats are allowed.

All boats, including those in other categories, must still comply with all other state park rules and regulations, Goddard emphasized.

The issuance of this directive is a move toward eliminating overlapping of regulations of this department with the rules of the newly-created State Boating Board," Goddard said. Under provisions of the Motor Boat law passed last year, all motorboats are required to display a registration number issued by the State Department of Revenue.

Goddard said owners of all other craft -- canoes, sailboats, row boats, etc. -- must still obtain launching permits at the parks.

Problems of Renewal
NEW YORK (AP) -- "The government calls it 'urban renewal' but we know it only as demolition," writes Dorothy Day, editor of the Catholic Worker. In a new book, "Loaves and Fishes" (Harper), she says: "Slums are constantly being torn down, to make way for housing project which the poor can't afford to live in, and there aren't enough places left for them to go."

FUND DRIVE -- Members of the parish solicitation phase of the $1,209,000 drive for a new Catholic high school for the Stroudsburgs check results showing $312,000 has been raised to date. Committee members are from left, Dorothy Kaufman, vice chairman of the young adults group; Gabriel Kolcan, vice chairman of the East Stroudsburg area; James Murphy, chairman, and the Rev. Francis G. Barrett, assistant pastor at St. Matthews Church in East Stroudsburg. (Arnold Photo)

Utility Seeks To Erect Line Across Delaware

Baylor Offers Test Ride

Volvo runs away from every other popular priced compact in every speed range, gets more than 25 miles to the gallon, like the little economy cars, and is virtually indestructible, according to John Baylor of Baylor Motors in Stroudsburg.

The reasons for the outstanding statements above can be readily proved by a visit to Baylor Motors.

Indestructibility is due to the high quality of both material and workmanship found on every Volvo car!

High performance is due to Volvo's famed B 18 model, four cylinder engine. Dual carburetors and precision four speed transmission give sparkling performance and a true gas economy figure of more than 25 miles to a gallon in all around driving.

Adding to the economy angle is the fact that oil changes require only three and a half quarts.

Many owners of larger cars, in the market for a compact, economical type of transportation, have found the transition a pleasing experience because Volvo does not sacrifice performance, as is true with a number of the compact type cars.

"Add ons" are few on Volvo cars as standard equipment includes: electric windshield wipers, deluxe bumper guards, cigarette lighter, durable leatherette upholstery, bucket, seats, back-up lights (on the 122 S), padded dash and visors, turn signals and oil filter.

Volvo was also the first car sold in the U.S. with seat belts as standard equipment. About the only items you can add on to Volvo's basic price is a Volvo custom radio and windshield washer.

THE CLEAN-CUT LINES OF THE VOLVO 122S are a favorite with buyers of compact cars. More and more people are discovering the high performance and economy of the Volvo 122S. Models include the model 122S in a 2 door (above), a 4 door, and a station wagon. Model 544 Sport sedan (best known as the first model sold in the U.S. and still a favorite), and the P1800S Sport Coupe. Visit Baylor Motors at 798 N. Ninth St. in Stroudsburg and test drive a Volvo!

COLOR AND DANGER
Colored paint is used extensively on the farm and in industry to signify danger and on machinery and heavy equipment, says the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association. A color in contrast to body color, or stripes of two contrasting colors, are among the methods used to designate cut-outs, door openings and guards. Yellow and black or orange and black stripes are widely used.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
QUESTION: We expect to have a house built to order within a few months and have decided we would like to have electric heating. We understand that our heating expense can be reduced considerably with the use of insulation. We would like to use mineral wool insulation. Can you tell us something about this in connection with electric heating?
ANSWER: First of all, any kind of insulation can cut down heating expenses, no matter how the house is heated. For your specific problem, from 4 to 6 inches of mineral wool should be used in the ceilings and roof. Three-inch batts or blankets are recommended for the walls, with 2 or 3-inch batts or blankets underneath the floors. If the house is to have concrete slab floors, then what is known as perimeter insulation is necessary.

All this is merely for your information since the final decision on how much insulation should be used is something that should be determined by your contractor and/or architect once you explain to him that you expect your new home to be insulated properly. The chances are that, even if you did not mention it, some insulation would be recommended and provided.

QUESTION: We would like to know whether we can lay floor tile over the top of the rubber tile on our kitchen floor. The old tile is about eight or 10 years old, but is in excellent condition. There are no broken or cracked or loose tiles.
Our only reason for making the change is that we want to have a different color scheme in the kitchen. We plan to use vinyl asbestos tile.

ANSWER: Since the old tiles are in such excellent condition and so firmly attached to the underfloor, there is no reason why you can't put the new ones over them. It is very important that the old tiles be free of wax before putting on the adhesive. Your tile dealer has a cleaning ingredient which emulsifies dirt, wax and grease.

You Can Depend On Katz

There are Pumps and Pumps and D. Katz & Sons, Dreher Ave., Stroudsburg, is one place you can depend on for the right type of pump for every job around the home.

With the thawing conditions that are going to prevail throughout our area and the excess water conditions that will develop in basements and the like, sump pumps are very much in demand.

The time to prepare for these conditions is before the condition exists.

Many people today have a permanent pump built into their basement at that low point providing for a dry condition at all times. A pump installed in this way is always ready when the first little trickle of water starts and it turns on automatically.

Advice Offered
Here too, you'll find D. Katz and Sons ready with the finest line of pumps to be found anywhere. Oftentimes, we are misinformed about what type and capacity a pump will handle our water pumping job.

Ed Katz or Bob Collins of the Plumbing and Heating Division will be happy to inform you of the proper Jacuzzi Pump for your application.

HOW MUCH PAINT?
Finish coats of house paint normally can be applied to about 500 square feet of surface per gallon, says the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association. Primer can be applied to about 450 square feet per gallon.

See Cramer's For Needed Cedar Closets

Cedar closets are "scentible" say the folks at R. C. Cramer Lumber Company.

At this time of year when most of us are storing our precious winter clothing, it is well to consider "how safe will they be?" Cedar chests offer insufficient room for all your valuables and the plastic zipper bags leave you with a feeling of uneasiness.

According to R. C. Cramer Lumber, the cost is nominal to convert a closet in your home to a cedar lined, mothproof closet.

This aromatic wood repels moths effectively. Its fragrant aroma kills newly hatched moths before they can mature and attack surrounding items.

Cedar is popular with the do-it-yourselfer because it not only repels moths, but it also is an attractive finish for a closet. It is moderately priced, tongue-and-grooved for a snug fit, and easy to install.

The first step in lining a closet with aromatic red cedar is to remove old fixtures and equipment from the walls. Then locate the studs by punching holes in the plaster with a thin nail.

Next build up the cedar lining, starting at the bottom and fastening the strips to the studs with four-penny nails.

Dr. Magann Argues Single School Unit

Mountainhome — "Why is it important to make every effort to avoid a one-unit county school district?"

Dr. Edmund A. Magann, one of the five members of the County School Board, president of the Pocono Mountains Joint Board and president of the Barrett Township school board, discussed this question with members of the Barrett Community Club at their meeting last week at Onawa Lodge in Mountainhome.

"School directors and supervisors are the only local control we have left," he said.

"Under a one-unit plan you will take away any possibility of keeping your present school systems in which you are interested. Under the four-unit district, you will not take away anything."

"Parents will still have their children attending the same districts for which they have been working over a long period of time, and nothing will be taken away from the individual district or the people of that district."

"In converting to a four-district plan, it is merely a matter of combining those existing districts, where everyone has children involved in that unit and are helping to pay for it, into a union district, or unit."

"In the four-district plan, you will not be going into a situation of being involved or paying for what some other district has done, while a one-district county unit, you will take all local control away and you can never get it back."

Local Control
Dr. Magann further told the club that "if we lose local control now, there is no legislation which would help get it back, because the legislation has already been passed for us to decide now whether to become a one-unit, a two-unit or a four-unit county school district."

If we start out now as a four-unit district, we can, if necessary, eventually form a one-unit district, but if we form the one-unit district now, we can't change our minds later and form the four-unit district."

"A few years back," he said, "the legislature passed Act 561 which said a school unit should contain 10,000 students, which would mean going on a county level, or more, in order to gather the necessary 10,000 students."

"This law was fought strongly and it was changed due to many of the legislators who pushed it not having been rejected."

"It was changed so that there was an 'out' given to the smaller areas such as ours who do not fit into a plan of 10,000 students, and who could meet some qualifications."

Separate Units
He said that the four districts which are presently existing in Monroe County could still remain as four separate individual districts, although they would each be known as a single unit, which in effect is a union district, in which all the component districts of the union-type district pay the same tax rate.

A jointure differs in that there are many different tax rates within the district. In the Pocono Mountain Jointure, of which Barrett Township is one of the eight districts, there are some communities paying as high as 50 mills, whereas Barrett pays the lowest tax — 29 mills.

Dr. Magann noted that there is a problem in the operation of the jointure district in that a district paying a lot of mills is not as anxious to spend money for a project as a district paying fewer mills, even though the project is worthwhile.

A union district would be easier to operate in that all districts involved would be paying the same millage.

He explained to members that if the county votes for the four-district plan, the composition of the units would be East Stroudsburg, Pocono Mountain Jointure, Pleasant Valley Joint and Stroud Union.

Representation
There will be no loss of local control because each district can be represented.

There will be nine school board directors for each of the four units, and there are no presently existing jointures or districts involved who have more than eight districts in their system. Therefore each district in each unit could have representation.

In describing the one-district unit, Dr. Magann said, "If we form a one-unit county district, then each of the 19 districts in the county pay the same tax rate, which wouldn't be so bad if we had the same type of schools and facilities, but we in the Pocono Mountain Jointure do not have the same problems as other districts have, nor do they have the same as we."

"For instance, we have a unique transportation route which runs 250,000 miles a year, and 99 per cent of the high school students ride on a bus, whereas in East Stroudsburg, the same transportation problem does not exist."

"We have other differences too — we are not an agricultural community nor an industrial community, we are a resort community and many of our children are interested in hotel work."

"In a one-district county unit, we lose the aspect of offering in our school system the programs we need to meet the demands of our local students."

Greater Tax Income
"In a one-unit school district, more income would be derived from a set tax rate from the Pocono Mountain Jointure's area than it would from either Stroud Union, East Stroudsburg or Pleasant Valley."

"It would be a situation where the tax rate would be increased greater in a district such as Pocono Mountain Jointure, and the additional income which was derived by an over all tax rate would take care of all county debts and would not be spent on improvements at the Pocono Mountain Joint schools, but would be spent in operating the other districts."

Less Representation
"Then too," Dr. Magann explained, "if we enter into a county unit and the nine directors are elected at large, it is very unlikely that small districts would have much chance of representation because of the larger population being in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg."

"Another bad aspect of the one-unit county school district is that the nine men who would be the directors, would have the problems of the entire county, and the likelihood is that they would not be familiar with all the aspects of the various districts within the unit as the present men now operating their districts are familiar with the ones which they are working on all the time."

One question and answer of particular interest to all club members was, "What in your opinion would be the added millage to our taxes if the one-unit county district is adopted?"

The answer by Dr. Magann was, "By 1966 I expect we will be adding 20 mills to our present tax rate if the one-unit county district plan goes through."

Susan Snyder, 16, Wins Seventeen Model Contest

STROUDSBURG — Susan Snyder, 16, with medium brown shoulder-length hair won a flip, and large brown eyes — was judged winner of Seventeen Magazine's "Be a Seventeen Fashion Model" contest in finals held Saturday afternoon in the Keystone Room of A. B. Wyckoff.

Miss Snyder received a sterling silver "Key to Modeling" charm from Miss Deanne Diney, merchandising coordinator of Seventeen, and a gift certificate of $25 from Wyckoff's, presented by William P. Wells, merchandising manager.

Miss Snyder is an 11th grade student of Stroud Union High School, enrolled in both drama and art classes of the Pocono Art Center. She served as co-chairman of Monroe County's teenage March of Dimes. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald A. Snyder of East Stroudsburg RD 2.

Runner-Up
Runner-up was Miss Linda Bosman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bosman of 102 Smith St., East Stroudsburg, who had been winner in the first contest on Friday evening when 32 girls competed.

Miss Bosman, 17, a student at East Stroudsburg Area High School, received a $15 Wyckoff gift certificate.

She has the lead in her school's senior play next Friday evening, and displays quite a flair for comedy in her role as Paul — one of the Beatles.

Special Award
Special award of a gold charm was presented to Pamela Cleveland, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cleveland of East Stroudsburg RD 2, in whom the judges saw outstanding potentials as a model even though she is a few months short of the age stipulated by the magazine. Pam will not be 13 until after Seventeen's national competition in April.

Judges
Those who selected Miss Snyder to represent this area in the national finals were Sally Ferrell, woman's commentator on WYOP; Linda Pipher, home economist for the Daily Record; and Irving Sommer, East Stroudsburg business man and photographer.

Setting for the fashion show, which had as its theme, "Fashions in Focus with Seventeen," was created by Marlene Andrews, Wyckoff advertising director.

Miss Dailey was fashion commentator, and Madelyn Maloney, "The Wyckoff Shopper," introduced contestants describing their hobbies and talents.

PTA Maps Programs For May

Newfoundland — Remaining programs for the Southern Wayne Parent Teacher Association for this term were announced by Elmer Becker, president of the unit, during the February meeting held in the Music Room of the elementary school this week.

The March 31 meeting will feature a program on "Health and Dental Care of Children," by Mrs. Robert Baughman and Mrs. J. Robert Burdick, dental technician and school nurse, respectively.

On April 28, Mr. Roland Seiler, elementary supervising principal of the Wallenpaupack Jointure, will speak on the testing program, and this meeting will be open, by special invitation, to the Hawley PTA.

On May 26, a panel of high school students will discuss "What Do We Think of the Big Change?"

Nomination, election and installation of officers will also be features of the next three meetings.

The Rev. Larry T. Lindemuth, chairman of the Greene-Dreher Educational Fund Board of Directors, spoke on the fund, and answered questions. He noted that "need doesn't necessarily mean poor," and that students requesting the funds sometimes simply want to put themselves through college.

Elmer Becker, president, noted that the meeting at the Hawley School as guests of the Hawley PTA was "quite a fine experience," and he said that reorganization of the high school PTA will take place at the instigation of the Wayne County Council of Parents and Teachers.

Richard McLain, principal of the elementary school in Newfoundland, reported on a meeting of the Wallenpaupack School Board's Transportation Committee. He said, "If we could attend these meetings, we would not be so eager to criticize the school board."

He noted that the committee has re-worked the schedule so that the high school will open ten minutes earlier, with classes beginning at 8:45 a.m., and that students will also get home earlier.

The members voted a donation to "Dollars For Scholars," a scholarship fund set up by the National PTA.

Johnson Pledges 'No Stag Party'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson appointed 10 women to top government jobs one night last week and said he was serving notice "that this administration is not running a stag party."

His surprise announcement came at a Women's National Press Club dinner at which the first Golden Candlestick Award was made to a New York judge, Mrs. Anna Kross, for work most exemplifying the spirit of the late Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

Johnson preceded his formal speech by announcing the new appointments ranging from an ambassadorship for Mrs. Katherine E. White of Reobank, N.J., to a new director of the Women's Bureau in the Labor Department, Mrs. Mary Keyserling, an economist and wife of economist Leon Keyserling.

He said the country to which Mrs. White has been appointed ambassador will be announced later.

Amid applause from the audience of some 600, Johnson listed these other appointments: Mrs. Virginia Mae Brown, Ph.D., WVA; to be the first woman member of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Miss Pauline Fomkins, North Edgemoor, Maine, executive secretary of the American Association of University Women, appointed to the advisory committee on education and cultural affairs of the State Department.

Mrs. Norman Chandler, wife of the president of the Los Angeles Times-Mirror Corp., to be a member of the advisory committee to the U.S. Information Agency.

Mrs. India Edwards, former vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee, to be special consultant to the secretary of labor on youth employment.

Miss Rose McKee, a former newspaper woman, to be director of the office of public information of the Small Business Administration.

Dr. Eleanor Poland of Kansas City, Mo., to be specialist on the research grants program of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Mrs. Barbara Bolling, former wife of Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., to be special assistant to the U.S. chief of protocol.

THE Strange Case OF GEORGE WILSON

In 1829 two men—Wilson and Porter—were convicted of robbing the United States mails, and sentenced to death by hanging. Three weeks before the time set for Wilson's execution, he was pardoned by President Andrew Jackson.

Strangely enough, Wilson refused the pardon. The case went to the Supreme Court (United States v. George Wilson, 7 Peters Report, p. 150) and the court finally handed down its decision: "A pardon is a deed, to the validity of which delivery is essential, and delivery is not complete without acceptance. It may then be rejected by the person to whom it is tendered; and if it is rejected, we have discovered no power in this court to force it upon him."

Most people would agree that Wilson was a fool for refusing to accept a pardon. Yet these same people daily reject the pardon which God has provided for them.

Because God is just, He must punish our sins. But because God is merciful, He Himself suffered the awful penalty when Jesus Christ, His Son, suffered all the wrath of God against our sins as He died on the cross of Calvary. "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

Your pardon has been signed by God Himself. Now all you need to do is accept it by telling God in prayer that you wish to be counted among those for whom Christ died. Unless you accept the pardon, you remain condemned.

Wilson's was a strange case. But then, Wilson was a fool.

Cassius's Muslim Alignment Scored

LOS ANGELES — It seemed advisable to wait a week or more before inspecting the motion pictures, just so the view would be fresh and the head that tends to fog from natural conditions in Miami Beach would be clear.

And so we paid the man the $2 at the neighborhood theater and confirmed a suspicion that had developed at ringside, namely, that Sonny Liston gave away a multi-million dollar title to a guy just as eager as Sonny to pack in.

By this stage, Cassius Clay has created the fantastic illusion that he pulverized Liston, beat him to a sanguinary pulp and rendered him meek and useless.

As revealed in the film, however, the stark truth is that if Sonny lost the title seated in his corner, Cassius won it in the same posture.

By the end of the fifth round, Liston's energy was obviously spent, but he failed to realize that Clay's was, too.

When Cassius, summoning what youthful reserve he had, made a fairly decent show in the sixth, he fluffed Liston into believing that he had more left than he did.

Tired and no doubt troubled with some shoulder pain, Sonny apparently envisioned himself being knocked out, a prospect that so darkened his brain that he chose, instead, to quit and save face.

The pictures indicate that if he had continued and merely bailed Clay about, slapping at his body, Cassius may have beaten Sonny to the towel.

Unmistakably, Liston lost confidence in himself when, as the fight progressed, he realized he wasn't in shape. There was a man who began his training in Las Vegas — and finished it in Miami Beach. It is a tribute to his strength that he wasn't carried into the ring.

Some 300 reporters watched Sonny skip rope, punch the bag and take the medicine ball in the belly. Superficially, he looked fit, but the critics were unable to tell that, underneath, he really wasn't.

For all his failings that night, he still had a chance if he hadn't quit. Cunningly, Cassius bluffed him out of the richest prize in sports.

It is most regrettable that Clay's new station of heavyweight champion is not without encumbrances. A boy of 22 ascending to this exalted position ordinarily would have the world at his toes. His is an office of impact, a rank conducive to pleasant excitement and adulation.

Yet, a sour undertone infiltrates the picture in the case of Cassius. A kid once considered humorous and cute isn't anymore, particularly by the bulk of his own people to whom he has delivered a punch in the groin at a critical time of their history.

Standing on the doorstep of a major breakthrough, the American Negro needs Cassius today like he needs Gov. Wallace.

The cause that Clay serves not only rejects integration, but alienates whites whose help is required by non-Muslim Negroes in the fight of equality.

No white is entirely without prejudice. Those of substance permit their intellect to dictate their reasoning which says that anything less than equality is morally wrong, inhuman and, above all, irrational.

The stupid white stands pat. Which means that a vital force in the argument is the borderline case, the man standing on the ledge, grappling with his conscience, ready to yield to the cause of a sensible democracy.

Cassius won't influence the intellectual white, or the stupid white, but he can cause a ripple among the borderline cases, those searching for any excuse to resist.

In the long range, the effect of Clay will be negligible, but he is still a heavyweight champion who will be trouble during his whole incumbency as titleholder.

Cassius's speeches professing love and peace only thinly disguise the full manifesto of the group in which he claims membership. Extremists of all kinds have learned a valuable lesson from the Communists, namely, that it is imprudent to rock the boat prematurely with a full disclosure of one's platform.

It's because of this that you shudder and quail envisioning the full torrent of little surprises that could be turned loose at the propitious moment by the Muslims, the Birchers, the Klansmen, the American Nazis, the Communists and such other benevolent brotherhoods.

The heart of Cassius Clay may brim with love and his motives may be Olympian. But a lot of people still felt easier when the heavyweight title belonged to a Jabbard.

Carl Kohl, Alice Kahl Win '840 Classic' Semis

STROUDSBURG — An extra game was necessary to decide the men's semi-final of the "840" Classic, with Carl Kohl, Stroudsburg, the winner. Alice Kahl came from behind to win the ladies match.

Kohl and Oscar Woolever of Cherry Valley, were tied with 521 at the end of the regular three game match. In the tie-breaker, Kohl rolled a 226 and Woolever 115 as 200 spectators watched the action.

Kenny Fetherman, Stroudsburg, totaled 569 and Gerry Dorfinger, East Stroudsburg, 484.

Alice Kahl of Tolyhanna made up a 19 pin deficit in the final game and went out in front to win the ladies match with a 476. Next was Barbara Kemmerer with 462, Helen Bobby, not long ago, a family sat down to dinner.

Everything went smoothly enough until the main course was served. Suddenly, a 13-year-old boy, who was among those eating, piped up:

"I think I'd like to be a professional baseball player, too, but I'm not gonna be washed up at 25."

The teen-ager who made that harsh remark was Dennis Estrada, younger brother of Baltimore Pitcher Chuck Estrada, who is laboring extra hard at Miami Stadium these days to prove he's not washed up at 25.

An 18-game winner for the Orioles in 1960, Estrada won only three games last year, never pitched a single ball after June 1 and underwent an hour-and-10 minute operation in Baltimore this past winter for the removal of a bone spur and calcium deposits in his right elbow.

Arm Improves

The Baltimore right-hander had a lot of time to think following his surgery.

Did he ever think he might be all through?

"That's all I kept thinking about," he admits. "I had no idea what I would do if I couldn't pitch. I don't have any other kind of trade."

But the first day in camp here, Estrada began throwing as if there never had been anything wrong with his arm.

"I don't hurt a bit," he says now. "You can't imagine how good it feels."

If Estrada is sound again he automatically becomes one of the Orioles' regular starters, but if the arm begins acting up, it could be curtains.

When Hank Bauer was named Baltimore manager, succeeding Billy Hitchcock last November, one of the first questions put to him was: "What about Estrada?"

Hopes For Comeback

Bauer replied, "we're not counting on him at all. Naturally, we hope the operation was a success. If it was, I don't have to explain how much it will mean to us. He led this club in strikeouts for three straight years. If he comes back, it'll be like a bonus for us. But we have no guarantee he'll even be able to throw at all."

Estrada isn't upset over Bauer's remarks.

"What else could he say but that," said the handsome, dark-haired right-hander. "I don't blame him. It's up to me to show him I can pitch again."

And from the looks of it, Estrada is on the right track.

Three Tie For Pensacola Open

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Defending champion Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and Miller Barber wound up in a three-way tie in the $30,000 Pensacola Open Golf tournament Sunday with 14-under-par 274s.

All three shot 69's Saturday. The three will meet in a 18-hole playoff beginning at 1 p.m. EST Monday.

The exciting finish came down to the final green where Palmer holed a clutch seven-foot birdie putt while Barber and Player were playing behind him with a one-stroke advantage.

The 30-man NCAA squad will be divided into three 10-man units March 22 and will assemble at the University of Kentucky the next day to start training.

The squad, augmented by the NCAA team champ, will play two exhibition games prior to the final Olympic trials April 2-4 at St. John's University in New York.

One 10-man squad will face the NCAA championship team at Evansville Ind. The other two 10-man teams will meet at Cincinnati March 26.

Then all four teams will play in a doubleheader at Lexington, Ky. March 28 in the second annual NABC Hall of Fame game.

They were selected for the 30-man squad by a committee of the National Association of Basketball Coaches headed by the 1964 Olympic coach, Henry Iba of Oklahoma State, and Adolph Rupp of Kentucky.

The rest of those invited are expected to announce their acceptance in the next few days. Bonham and Caldwell are highly regarded frontliners. The 5-foot-9 Newsome is one of the nation's best college backliners.

NCAA Cagerama Boasts 25 Teams Competing For Title

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Twenty-five teams would like the NCAA basketball championship, but Michigan's long absence from the tournament makes its heart especially fond of wanting to win it.

Package Confusion

I am a housewife and think it is time somebody did something about store packages! Where I shop for food, there are thousands of packages with varying weights and measures. Some show the contents in ounces while others use pounds or fractions of pounds. Two packages may have different shapes and sizes with one listing 2 lbs. as the weight, and the other 32 ounces. I know the grocer isn't trying to cheat me, but there is hocus - pocus going on. Someone ought to clamp down on package artists and grocery product manufacturers.

This is a working man's town and words like "strikes," "lay-offs" and collective bargaining" are learned by children before they understand "love." Seeing some late night movies on TV, involving old time guilds, has me writing you. Guild members were happier than union members today. How have we gotten so far away from the guild? Is there a way back?

MR. L. B.

Contrary to Hollywood, medieval guilds were not laughter-packed clubs of roisterers. Purposes of these union forerunners were serious. Skilled craftsmen

Abuses have been so rampant in the packaging of grocery products, the pendulum is already swinging back to whack manufacturers. A confusion of local and state labelling laws is being interwoven with murky government regulations.

were serious. Skilled craftsmen were organized within a profession or trade to maintain quality, control prices and limit jobs . . . and to stifle trade from other areas. The medieval guild membership included masters as well as journeymen and apprentices (journeymen were men qualified as masters but limited job openings prevented them from setting up shop).

STROUDSBURG — Congressman Fred B. Rooney has nominated six more young men from the 15th Congressional District for appointment to the United States Air Force Academy. The additional appointments were made possible this week when President Johnson signed a bill increasing the number available to Congressmen.

Under terms of the bill signed by the President, Congressmen from uneven-numbered districts are authorized to nominate six young men each, while Congressmen from even-numbered districts are authorized to nominate only four.

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) —A man bit a dog here last night, police Supt. Bill Humphries said Thursday. The animal, a police patrol dog, bit back in self-defense. Humphries said the dog surprised an African breaking into a theater, chased the man, who turned and grappled with it, biting it on the right ear.

Later, a man was arrested and charged with being a rogue and a vagabond, he added.

GUEST SPEAKER — Robert D. Anderson, member of Ross Twp. School board and its representative to Pleasant Valley Joint School Committee, was the guest speaker Friday at an assembly in Pleasant Valley High School, Brodheadsville, for new members of the honor societies in the school.

Eldred Township Board Votes Down Wage Tax

KUNKLETOWN — Eldred Twp. supervisors Saturday voted down any earned income wage tax.

Frank Taylor and Mrs. Beatrice Bohner, both members of the Eldred Twp. School Board, asked the supervisors, at the meeting in the Kunkletown Firehouse, if they were going to levy earned income wage tax. The school board now levies its own wage tax.

After a long discussion the supervisors said they would not adopt such an ordinance this year.

Their decision was made after Taylor explained that if the supervisors adopted the ordinance, the township would receive about $5,500 from the tax, but then the school tax millage would be increased approximately five mills.

Tax Split

Taylor said, "Under the law you (supervisors) get half of the tax money collected from this earned income wage tax. The other half goes to the school board. In this case the tax amounts to about $11,000." "If you levy the tax then the school board will lose the money and will be forced to increase the millage. We (the school board) are in the process of making our budget for the year."

"This is why Mrs. Bohner and I are here. If you tell us that you are not going to levy the tax then we can set up our budget as planned, but if you levy the tax then we will re-figure our budget," Taylor added.

Budget Adopted

In other business the supervisors adopted the 1964 budget of $30,639. This does not change the tax millage of last year. The real estate tax is 3½ mills and there is a $3 per capita tax.

Expenditures in the budget are as follows: Administration, $1,681; tax collection, $291; township building, $1,378; fire, $225; highways, township funds only, $16,700; and miscellaneous, $500.

No Tax Rise In Hamilton

SAYLORSBURG — Hamilton Twp. supervisors have tentatively approved a $41,311.66 budget for 1964. In making the budget the supervisors have been able to maintain the same five mill real estate and the $5 per capita tax.

Administrative expenditures show $336, supervisor's salary, $1,400, secretary - treasurer's salary, $225, auditors, $150, office supplies, $75, premium of bonds for officials, $20, state association dues, $200, solicitor, and $20 for other township expenses.

Also, $200, capital outlay; $1,400, fees for the tax collector; $70, premium for tax collector's bond.

Township building expenditures total $650. They are broken down to $50, wages; $200, fuel, light and water, and $400, repairs.

The budget calls for a contribution to the Blue Ridge Hook and Ladder Fire Company of $300.

Highways call for expenditures of $30,032.18. It is broken down as follows: $1,500, snow removal; $1,500, repairs to tools and machines; $8,000, construction and reconstruction of roads, and $19,032.18, maintenance of roads and bridges.

Miscellaneous expenses are $1,570 and include convention expenses of $70 and insurance payment of $1,500.

The budget also shows $750 interest on an anticipated loan, and a non-governmental expense of debt reduction amounting to $3,250.

The budget is open to inspection at the home of the secretary, Ray Mackes, until March 28.

He wore his seat belt

He didn't

Seat belts in your car are life savers.

But only if you use them every time you drive—even though you're going only a few blocks or miles.

Because traffic accidents happen without warning, and more often close to home than away on a trip. In fact, 2 out of 3 traffic deaths occur within 25 miles of the victims' homes.

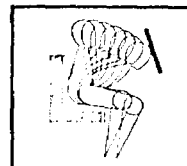

And do seat belts work? They certainly do.

The National Safety Council estimates that if everybody had seat belts and used them, at least 5,000 lives could be saved each year, and serious injuries reduced by one-third.

Be safety wise. Join the millions who have had seat belts installed, and use them. Every time you drive, buckle up for safety.

With seat belts. When your car stops suddenly, you "stay put" ... with a vital Margin of Safety between you and serious injury or even death.

Without seat belts. When your car stops suddenly in a collision or emergency, you are flung forward with tremendous force—into dash or windshield.
